Y. BOWLERS PICK TEAMS FOR LEAGUE

Games Will Start Next Monday and Continue Until the Middle of December—Six Teams to Play

The alley men of the Y. M. C. A. got together last night and selected teams to form the new league which will roll a preliminary schedule before the first of the year. Six organizations are entered in the race, each club to play a schedule of thirty games, and games to count in the percentages, as was the case last season.

The captains who drew for choice and then made their selections last night were Gear, Franz, Wilkinson, Rietow, Edgcomb, and E. F. Schmidt. When the selections were made it was found that the teams shaped up as follows:

Cherries—Gear, Williams, Raseman, Mills, Swain, Andelov. Dark Horses—Wilkinson, Harris, Clark, R. Scott, Leslie Scott, James, Splitters—Rietow, Winne, Bernal, Tinker, Sr., Emmons, Guard, Ferguson.

Breakers—Franz, White, Zimmermann, H. White, Tinker, Jr., Longley. Expanders—Edgcomb, Milton, Glymer, Wisdom, Atherton, Finch, Jones, Rollers—Schmidt, E. F. Roberts, Dyson, Barter, Franklin, Froelich.

Rietow, Gear and Wisdom will get together within the next day or so and draft the schedule for the series. It will provide plenty of rolling, and should bring out some interesting play.

At the close of this League the Club League will at once organize, and start sometime in January. The following clubs will probably enter, Honoluluans, Lanai Club, Stragglers, Brunswick-Dukes and the Cosmos.

CHINESE WILL PLAY SATURDAY BUT THEIR OPPONENTS UNCERTAIN

J. A. C.'s Willing to Take Them
On but League Management
Wants to Use the Hawaiis

With the return and reception of the All-Chinese team yesterday, local fans began to clamor for a chance to see the travelers in action after their long tour, and the cry is so insistent that probably a game will be arranged for next Saturday afternoon. The Chinese are anxious to play, the fans are anxious to have them, and more than one team of the Calu league is anxious to take a crack at the much-touted Orientals. This combination should be productive of results.

However, there is one stumbling block, and that is the Oahu Senior league management, which does not care to have a league team play two days in succession, for fear of cramping the regular Sunday league show. The league is quite willing to have the swing team, that is not scheduled for a Sunday game, take on the Chinese, but this does not accord exactly with tentative plans.

It seems that the J. A. C. players, who won the first place of the league series after the play-off with the Stars, claim the right to tackle the Chinese first, and are anxious for a game Saturday. This suits the Chinese down to the ground, but the league management won't stand for it.

"The league teams are too shy on good pitchers, and don't practice enough to allow them to play two days in succession," said A. Q. Marcellino, manager of the Oahu Senior League, this morning. "Now the Hawaiis have no game for next Sunday, and I think they should go on against the Chinese team this coming Saturday. Let the J. A. C.'s have the game the following Saturday, when they have no game for the next day."

That's the way the matter stands at present, but it's almost certain that the Chinese will get a game for this coming Saturday, with one or other of the above mentioned league teams.

The banquet given last night by the Chinese merchants of the city to the Chinese team, at Nottley Hall, Kukul street was a success from start to finish. Kim Tong Ho was toastmaster, and discharged the duties of the office to good effect. Speeches were made by the Chinese consul, Charles Chillingworth, A. Q. Marcellino, and several others, while members of the team told something of their long trip. The trophy cups presented to the team in Chicago and San Francisco, by Chinese residents, were exhibited and much admired.

FUSILLADE OF HITS AND RUNS

The Giants must have turned loose their yesterday when the hits began to bring the runs across the pan at the Polo Grounds. A batting rally that nets five runs almost before the game is started is something out of the ordinary in any sort of a game, much less a world's championship and the loyal New York Rooters who have been waiting so long to let off steam must have had the time of their lives.

The following is another story of yesterday's game, by wireless to the Advertiser.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The proud boast of Richard de Marquis, otherwise "Rube" Marquard, that he would lower the colors of the Boston contingent, was realized this afternoon when he scored a decisive win over the henchmen of J. Garland Stahl before a crowd of 20,000 persons on the Polo Grounds.

The real big feature of the game came in the opening stanza, when the Giants, made desperate by the fact that the contest might prove the last and deciding game of the championship, stepped in and annihilated the soggy curves of "Buck" O'Brien. The avalanche of blows completely smothered the saliva king, and when he emerged from the wreckage at the close of the inning, the home team had stowed the game safely away with a five-run lead.

Six hits and an error had paved the way to a rally that will go down in history as one of the most vicious that ever occurred in a world's series. O'Brien's delivery was very much to the liking of the Giant sluggers, who came to bat, one after the other, and eluded the ball to the far corners of the lot.

Boston's Seize Chance. Marquard was bubbling over with good cheer, when he went back to the mound in the second inning, and, in an unguarded moment, he let the Red Sox nick his delivery for three hits and two runs. Then came his Gardner, Stahl and "Red" Engle. The latter was sent to bat for the luckless O'Brien and responded in the pinch with a long double that brought his two team-mates home. After that Marquard settled down to the task which was before him, of proving that the great $11,000 "Lemon" was no longer a lemon. At times in those succeeding innings, "the Rube's" speed was too smoky to follow. He mixed them up and showed control almost as good as that possessed by Mathewson.

Ray Collins was selected to bear the burden shifted from the young shoulders of O'Brien, and he toiled faithfully and hard. Save for a triple by Meyers, Collins was never in danger, and from his exhibition would doubtless have given the Giants a tough battle had he been the original selection for Boston.

Battle of "Southpaws." The battle of the "southpaws" was close, but with everything in Marquard's favor and the new idol of Broadway breezed along in easy fashion.

After the game was over, the managers of the clubs tossed a coin to determine in which city the deciding game should be played in the event that New York win tomorrow in Boston. Manager Stahl called "tails," and it fell "tails," so the deciding game will be played in Boston.

New York made eleven hits and two errors while Boston got seven hits and made one error.

The attendance at the game was 20,622, the receipts being $66,354. Of this amount each club will receive $29,994, while $6386 will go to the National Commission.

The Score.

CHEENY, DERBY WINNER, ONE OF THE GAMEST MARES SEEN

CHEENY
Winner of the American Derby

WHEN Cheeny, a little mare from the stable of John Muirkey, of Waxahochie, Texas, trotted under the wire at Readville, Mass., a few days ago the winner of the $10,000 American Derby she won for herself the reputation of being the gamest horse on the Grand Circuit.

She had been lame for weeks, so lame that "Big John" Flemming, who drives her, feared she would have to go to the hospital, but she beat the crack horses of the country in America's greatest race without once slowing the sign of a limp, and as her driver led her into her stall she rubbed her nose against his shoulder and looked as pleased as if she were human and realized what she had accomplished.

"She knows more than some men," Flemming said after the race, "and I believe that she went out and won the Derby just because she knew that it was my ambition to send her under the wire first. Cheeny and I talk the races over always, and I am willing to bet her weight in silver that she knows every word I say to her. She is the most sensitive horse I ever saw. She never viciously resents and abuse, but the look on her face, if any one is unkind to her, to a person with horse sense is more of a rebuke than a kick."

Cheeny is perhaps the smallest racing horse on the Grand Circuit. She weighs less than 900 pounds—about the weight of a pony—and her limbs are so fine that one wonders where she gets the remarkable strength that is in them. She is called upon to do more than the ordinary racing horse, too, because her driver Flemming is six feet in height and weighs 200 pounds.

She loves Flemming, though, and he loves her, and believes that she would rather have him and all his avoirdupois in the sulky behind her than a ninety pound boy.

When she won first by half a length in the Derby she showed no evidence of fatigue and her body was as dry as if she had been simply having a little workout over the track. She is a mass of nervous energy when in action, but always has an ear a little to one side, so that she can hear the words of encouragement and advice that Flemming uses instead of a whip.

The day of the Derby she was limping about the track for five minutes before the start, but once turned for the line the lameness disappeared. Back in the stable and the race over, the limp came back and Cheeny seemed to suffer considerable pain while the affected leg was being bather and wrapped in bandages.

"Big John" Flemming has never been able to induce her Texas owner to set her, Flemming has her under lease for the Grand Circuit meetings, and when the season is over he will have to take her back to Waxahochie.

Cheeny is five years old and was bred by L. W. Green & Son, of Indianola, Ill. She comes of a long line of blooded ancestors, and when she was two years old great things were prophesied for her. She was raced last year through the West and Southwest, and at Dallas, Texas, made a record of 2:09 1/2. This year she has been raced eight times in Grand Circuit meetings, and at Fort Erie lowered her record to 2:07 1/2. She was opposed by faster horses in the Derby, but it was a handicap event and none of the cracks had a chance against her from the start.

Her best race before the Derby was at Detroit, where she was second to Chatty Direct in 2:07 1/2 and 2:07 3/4.

GOSSIP OF GOLF

Truly golf is becoming more universal every day and the latest is that an English actress known on the stage as Miss Decima Moore but who in private life is Mrs. Guigisberg, wife of the surveyor-general of Nigeria, has been playing golf with the boy king of Uganda. The 16-year-old sovereign, whose name is David Chwa (and I am glad I am not called on to pronounce it), is a very enlightened and highly civilized personage. He studies under an English university graduate. He played with Mrs. Guigisberg on his own private course at Kampala from which there is a magnificent view of Lake Victoria. Last any one might think the age of chivalry is past or that that quality belongs only to the white races, let us add that the dusky monarch gallantly named the first hole on the course the "Decima" in honor of the visit of his English opponent. His majesty is also said to play tennis well and a very fair game of golf. His caddie is always an imposing member of the royal bodyguard.

Country Club golfers are taking anxious squints at the new ground over which the additional holes will run, every time they make a round of the course these days. The clearing of the land is slow work, and to the club swiftness who are hoping to get a chance to extend themselves over eighteen holes next spring, the preliminaries seem interminable. Even when the ground is clear of rock and underbrush, it will be several months before either the new fair green or even the putting greens will be fit to play on, so devotees of iron and driver had better possess their souls in patience, and forget that there is to be a new course until it is actually opened.

Alex Bell figures that there will be only one brassy shot for a line player on the new Country Club course. On paper this may be so, but with some of the gentle breezes of the fall against the player it's a safe bet that not many will care to leave their wooden clubs in their lockers when

KAMEHAMEHA LOOMS LARGE ON ATHLETIC HORIZON THIS YEAR

Soccer and Track Men Show
Considerable Class and They Should Make School Strong
Factor in the Interscholastic
League

Kamehameha School is going in strong on athletics this year. One division of athletics is no sooner completed than another is taken up. At present the school is deep in baseball. After baseball, soccer commences, and then track events will be along to claim attention.

The school is divided into three companies, A, B, and C, between which great rivalry exists. The inter-company games in baseball, soccer and track will claim the school's attention until about December 10th. Between inter-company games and interscholastic games, Kamehameha School will be extremely busy during the coming athletic season.

Besides baseball, soccer and track, the companies compete in shooting, military field work, and competitive drills. Games of some sort or other are taking place every day except Sunday and Monday. At present the companies are completing their baseball series, and two games are being played daily. Each company has three baseball teams and in other events they will have two teams. At the end of the athletic season the company that has the greatest number of points is treated to a dinner and a dance by the rest of the school.

The standing of the companies up to date are: Company C, 12 points; Company B, 8 points; and Company A, 4 points. These points have all been won in baseball. The baseball series began a week and a half ago and will last until Wednesday of next week, there being about eleven games yet to play. The third teams play a game each day and the first and second teams alternate, the first

KAHUKU GRAYS BEAT WAIPAHU

KAHUKU, Oct. 14.—Last Sunday, the Kahuku Grays and the Waipahu Blues crossed shots on the Waipahu diamond. The game was won by the former whose heavy hitting brought them victory, by a score of 12-10. The contest lasted ten innings. Both sides made a good many errors; but the errors of the Kahukus were patched up by the fine pitching of Janssen, the good catching of Plemmer and the sensational fielding of M. Rod.

Meguel played his game at short, and Travens did well at third. The timely hits of Plemmer, Oana, Juel and Janssen saved the game for the Kahuku Grays. Janssen made a home run, Plemmer and Oana each had a three-bagger to their credit, and Juel a two-bagger. Caesar, the Waipahu pitcher was knocked out of the box. His place was taken by Benny, an Aiea boy.

The Waipahu's were leaders up to the first half of the ninth the score being 9-7, but the Kahukus came in, in the ninth and succeeded in getting three men across the plate. That made the score 10-9 in favor of the Grays. The Waipahu's brought in one run in their half of the ninth which tied the score. In the tenth the Kahukus added two more runs to their ten. The Waipahu's came in and were struck out one-two-three by the Kahuku pitcher Janssen. Thus ended the ten inning battle.

Struck out by Caesar 5, by Benny 4, by Janssen 13.

The line up of the victors was as follows:

Oana, cf; Juel, 2b; Rod, 1b; Plemmer, c; Meguel, ss; Travens, 3b; Silva, rf; Juel, lf; Janssen, p.

Woodrow Wilson was the guest of William J. Bryan at the latter's home at Lincoln, Neb. and in a heart-to-heart talk they decided upon a democratic victory.

SWIMMING PUT ON INTERSCOLASTIC LIST

At a recent meeting of the Interscholastic Athletic League, it was decided to introduce another athletic event in this year's events to be an interscholastic swimming meet between Kamehameha, Punahou, McKinley and St. Louis. This new feature was received with great enthusiasm by all the schools, and is sure to produce good results as nearly every student is proficient to a greater or less degree in swimming.

The date for this tournament is at present awaiting decision.

playing one day and the second the next.

Soccer Next. Soccer begins next week. The first inter-company games will be played on Friday and Saturday, and will continue regularly thereafter until the completion of the series. After the inter-company games will come the interscholastic games. The team which will represent Kamehameha in this series will be composed of the best players from each company teams.

The company teams are headed by the officers of the battalion, and all the teams are coached and supervised by Lieutenant G. E. Turner.

One or two soccer games will be played with St. Louis before Christmas and they will mark the beginning of the soccer season. The series will not be completed until after Christmas, as McKinley, which is also going to have a soccer team, will not take up soccer until after the football season.

Kam will not have a football team, but will spend all her time developing her soccer team and is confident that she can put out a championship eleven.

Cross-Country Run. After the soccer series comes the annual cross-country run between Kam and Punahou. This is an event that arouses considerable interest in both schools.

The cross country run is a sort of preliminary to the track meet, which comes immediately after, and is probably the most important athletic event of the year.

With such a schedule of athletics as Kam has this year, there will be chances for all students to participate, for what one is not good in, another is, and consequently each team should be composed of the best athletes in that line. If such is the case and Kam hopes it is, more than one winning team will be wearers of the Blue and White.
